The object of this organization is to promote systematic investigation and study, and to advance scientific knowledge.

One method of work is for each member to select, before November of each year, some topic for special study during the following year, and report the same to the secretary. Each member prepares a paper on his topic and gives a report of his work at the annual meeting, which is held on Tuesday morning of Commencement Week, each year.

The Christian Association.

For years the Christian Association has been the principal religious organization of the Normal School, and it has proved to be one of the most helpful features. It was organized in 1885, with Prof. Fair, President; Miss Annie Given, Vice-President; Prof. Davis, Secretary; and Miss Adah Marshall, Treasurer. Since its organization it has steadily increased in numbers until at present there is a membership of about two hundred.

The Thursday and Sabbath evening prayer meetings are well attended, and the Association, realizing that Christianity is a practical thing, endeavors to make these meetings a help and an encouragement in the most commonplace duties of school life.

The committee of the Association are doing earnest work. The committee for welcoming new students is becoming one of the most important. The work done by this committee at the opening of each school term has been highly appreciated by the new students. The membership committee is doing active work in bringing the new students into the Association, and encouraging the others to more active work.

Although, not connected with the State Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., the Association has had visits from representatives of these organizations, and has been invited to join them in their State and National Conventions. Accepting their kindness, the Association sent a delegate to the National Y. W. C. A. Convention at Northfield, Mass., last summer, and had two representatives at the State Convention, held at Harrisburg, in October, 1896.

A number of the former members are now missionaries in our own and foreign lands. In the work among the Freedmen are: Miss Mary Williams and Miss Mary Clingerman, in Spellman Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia; Miss Florence Stephenson, Asheville, N. C.; Miss Ella Day, who was in the College at Norfolk, Va., for several years; and Miss Dain, now dead, who taught in Scotia Seminary, Concord, N. C. In the foreign field we are represented by Dr. Bertha Caldwell, at Allahabad, India; Miss Margaret C. Davis, at Landour, N. W. Province, India; Mr. W. F. Shields, in Siam; and Miss Truong, in South America. Among those who were foreign missionaries, but have been removed by death or ill-health, are: Mrs. Jennie Given Anderson, who died in India; and Miss Annie Givens, who spent seven years in Northern India; and Miss Angus, who died on her way home from Southern Africa. Mrs. Schmucker, who was in the Egyptian Mission two years, is now in Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Mary Work Hogg, who spent four years in Egypt, is now living in Oxford, England.

The present officers of the Association are:—President, Prof. H. R. Jaques; Vice-President, Fannie Roller; Secretary, Elizabeth Welsh; Treasurer, C. M. Christy.
HEN the association of King's Daughters of Indiana Normal School was organized October 14, 1888, the following officers were elected: Miss Martha Cameron, President; Miss Emma Mayor, Vice-President; Miss Edna F. Chester, Secretary; and Miss Anna Kimber, Treasurer.

The object of this organization is to develop spiritual life and to stimulate Christian activity. It is the earnest desire of the members to be trained to work in Christ's vineyard, and to seize every opportunity to help others bear their burdens, ever remembering, "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my little ones ye have done it unto me."

That the work may be made more effective, the organization is divided into circles of ten, guided by a careful leader. These circles meet every week when a scripture lesson is read, and hymns of praise and prayer are offered to our King. New plans of work are suggested, and we receive special help by telling of encouragement or trouble that we have met with during the week. We find of all the work in which the King's Daughters have been engaged, that of self-government has been most important. Sometimes we turn our attention to the cultivation of a special habit—cheerfulness, charity toward our fellow students, or self-denial—and give a report at our next meeting of the benefits won or lost. The second Sabbath of every month a general meeting is held at all the Tees, when, after the devotional exercises a report is made of each Circle's work, and the members are helped in their work by an earnest address from the President.

The King's Daughters here are by no means a strong organization, but they have done much in the last nine years to smooth rough places. Many sad little hearts at the Orphans' Home or the hospital have been made light at Christmas and Easter by flowers, cards or colored eggs; many families have enjoyed baskets sent to them on Thanksgiving; many invalids have been cheered by helpful books or papers. Besides, the King's Daughters have been able to hold a scholarship at Asheville, N.C., since 1891. By means of this three girls have been sent out into the world prepared to support themselves and to live a better life, and a fourth is now receiving an opportunity to educate herself. While this work has been done for strangers, home duties have not been neglected. Enough money has been saved to purchase an invalid's chair, to make our hospital more comfortable, and to furnish supplies for the diet kitchen.

All the work of this organization is done so quietly that even those who enjoy the gift are ignorant of the donor; showing that the King's Daughters have learned to do their alms before God rather than before man.

The following are the officers: Miss M. Fair, President; Miss Nora B. Osburn, Vice-President; Miss Elma T. Fields, Secretary; Miss Anna H. Parsons, Treasurer.

One Walking Club.

In the early fall a club was formed that had an ambition to explore the neighboring country and surround all the hills in the immediate vicinity. The composition of this club was somewhat elusive, never being twice the same. Theoretically, it consisted of seven young men and seven young ladies, with a lady teacher as invited (?) guest. Practically, it was never able to boast of more than three young men at any one walk, and this number was soon diminished to two. The quality of those who so calamously persisted in escort duty made up for lack of quantity, and the young ladies who took all the walks regularly, found not only that their pleasure increased, but they gained power to endure and lengthen the distance. The intention, at first, was to walk three times a week. This was soon diminished to twice a week, and, finally, one walk a week was all for which many pressing duties left time.

There are many more points of interest around Indiana than are generally known. The old paper mill, the tannery, several haunts of bears,—one a straw for the old "underground railway" of war times,—White's woods, and other woods equally beautiful, were each in turn visited, under the efficient escort before mentioned.

The few members of the club who continued to walk after snow and ice had locked up the woods and streams, were more than rewarded by the hitherto unknown beauties which the winter gives to nature. At no other time do we see such soft tints in the sky—such blending of white and gray, and even the withered foliage of departed summer has a grace of form and beauty of coloring all its own.

As the mild airs of spring came again, the enthusiasm of the club revived, and larger numbers enjoyed the walks which were planned. They were even benevolent enough to invite two more lady teachers to enjoy the walks with them.

It is now unanimously voted by the members of this club that it has been a source of much pleasure and benefit; that in time, with practice, our young ladies might rival their English cousins, and that many beautiful pictures have been stored away by memory for future enjoyment, while the lungs were being filled and invigorated by such bountiful supplies of pure air.

Motto: "Let's have a high old time."

HIS club is not noted
For numbers, or quoted
For any great deeds of renown.
But you all must agree
Tho' another there be,
'Twas the first walking club in the town.

Our number is six,
Our motto we fix
To suit the needs of our time.
But walking, or working,
You ne'er find us thinking,
But having "a high old time."
